SUMMARY

Support specialist of five years in a software company, now leading a small group. A steady writer who likes clear help pages and clean reports.

EXPERIENCE

Senior Support Specialist, Dunmore Analytics, 2021 to present

I lead a group of four agents for the billing product. I plan the week, check replies before sensitive ones go out and run short training sessions on new features; my one-to-ones are monthly. Two of the four joined after I helped interview them.

I handle customer cases on billing errors and failed renewals. Most customers are satisfied, but I find long angry calls hard and pass them to my manager.

I use the helpdesk daily: views, tags and a few macros I made for the most common billing answers.

I produce a monthly report with volume, first response and satisfaction by product, and I presented it to the department three times. I found that 14 percent of tickets were about invoice downloads.

That finding led me to rewrite the invoice help page and add a short video; invoice tickets fell by 40 percent in two months.
